Dedication Of

Corner Stones

Tuesday August 2nd was a red letter day in the history of both the Roros church and the Zion church. It being the occasion of the visit of the Right Rev. J. R. Lavik, president of the Canada district of the United Lutheran church, to dedicate the corner stone of both churches.

Great Improvements

At Roros Church

During the past weeks the congregation of the Roros church have carried out some splendid improvements to this building. From the main north road the structure presents an imposing appearance, whilst the interior is remodelled and enlarged is one of capacity and comfort. When the work is completed the building will look beautiful both within and without. An extensive basement has been excavated and built up with cement. In this basement is located a capacious furnace, and the balance of the room provides ample accommodation for social gatherings, or as on Sunday, for serving community meals.

The members of the congregation have donated much of the labor, the work being well done, and done at a great saving of cost.

Herbert Greenfield

Premier Of Alberta

Herbert Greenfield who has been selected as the new Premier of Alberta, was born in Winchester, England, 52 years ago. He is an out and out farmer, and has passed through the mill from being an hired man to the owner of one of the finest farms in Northern Alberta.

He came to Canada in 1892 and for several years was engaged in farming at Watford, in Western Ontario.

In 1906 he homesteaded at Westlock and has resided there ever since.

He is a man of strong personality and is considered by his admirers to be eminently fitted to guide the farmers' destiny in Alberta.

Chauvin Troop Return Bringing Back The Laurels

The Chauvin troop of the 19th Alberta Dragoons has returned from camp, Tuesday, after one of the most successful camp training ever undertaken by this regiment. During this period the Chauvin troop won the position of being the 'crack' troop of the regiment.

The troop on leaving Chauvin Sunday July 24th, 28 strong, were presenting a fine appearance in their uniforms. They were presented with a melon by Comrade Clifford to break the monotony of the trip. Edmonton was reached in the early hours of Monday morning.

The first important business was that of making camp, in which the Chauvin troop being early arrivals had a large part. The days that followed were fully occupied, being made up of mounted drill in the forenoon and rifle drill in the afternoon. It is needless to say that the Chauvin men showed up to splendid advantage, thanks to the training they had received under Major Strachan, before leaving for camp.

Chauvin came away with the lion's share of the honors. In the inspection for the cleanest tents in the whole lines Chauvin took the first and second prizes easily. Messrs Godin, Eggen, Burton, McDonald and Tuy taking first; LaPlante, ~~Johnston~~, Pritchett, Natress and Russell taking second.

In the field of sports Chauvin made a clean up of the prizes. Trooper A. Price gaining first prize as the best turn out mounted trooper.

Leaholme Picnic

The rain and gloomy sky on July 29th by no means spoilt the sports at Prosperity. Baseball between Battle hill and Leaholme was the first on the programme. Battle Hill held the highest score 61 till the last inning, then Leaholme got their nerve up and played, which made the game a tie of 8-8.

A fast and hard game of Basket Ball between Leaholme and Chauvin girls was then played, the score being 2-6 in favor of Chauvin.

Mr. Gilbertson and Mr. Knutson supplied the music for the dance needless to say the school was overcrowded, but everybody kept the floor down till 2.30 in the morning.

The proceeds amounted to $65.65.

Municipal Hospitals Increase In Alberta

Eight municipal hospitals were in operation in Alberta during the past year, and four new hospital districts established. Schemes ratified by ratepayers up to the end of the year provide for 196 beds, and during the year, 2,439 patients were admitted to those hospitals in operation. The rural tax rate for the support of the hospitals varied from 2½ cents an acre to 4 cents per acre.

Examination Results

The following were successful in passing Grade XI examinations:

Dorothy Saul; Florence Cahill; Cecil Burton; Mrs. Margaret Laws.

This being 100 per cent is an exceptionally good record.

GRADE X—Grant Skul, Lucy Withnell, Eileen Ellis.

Fall Rye Proves Good Utility Crop

After having cut about one and a half loads of hay per acre this summer Irving Neil will in the next few days start to harvest a crop of rye which promises around fifteen bushels to the acre. This off fairly light land..

From another patch of five acres Mr Neil will harvest a crop of rye which promises to yield about twelve bushels to the acre. This field was, however, used as a pasture until June 3rd. Both the above fields were sown on summerfallow last year, and the rye is of the fall variety.

Mr Neil's experience with rye leads him to observe that fall rye needs to be sown on good land to insure the best returns. In 1920 he found rye to be his most profitable grain crop, in the present year he anticipates that wheat will prove the most profitable.

Saskatoon Newspaper Publisher Is Injured

Joseph Clarke, publisher of the Dundurn Enterprise, was seriously injured when his automobile was struck by a train near that place Sunray. He was brought to St. Pauls Hospital, Saskatoon, suffering from a scalp wound and a badly mutilated compound fracture of the right forearm which may make amputation necessary. Rain on the windshield was the cause of the accident.

Real English Raisin Loaves, baked by J. P. Fisher at the Chauvin Bakery.

Dr. Buggins, Dentist, will visit Chauvin August 18th 19th and 20th.

Wedding Bells

On Wednesday July 27th the marriage of Miss Mary Cargill, of Airlie to Mr. A. Sim of Claresholm took place at the home of the bride's parents,

The bride was attended by her sister Miss Mina Cargill, and Mr. George Gibb supported the bridegroom. The Rev. Millar, of Chauvin officiated at the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Sim will leave shortly for Claresholm, where they will reside. The good wishes of their many friends from Chauvin and Airlie for their happiness will be with them.

Excellent Raspberries Grown By D. Reynolds

Mr. Dave Reynolds, brought into our office on Saturday morning a box of very fine raspberries which he had gathered that morning from his own garden. They were of uniform size and color and excellent quality. Mr. Reynolds informed us that he had gathered about 80 quarts during the past week. This is surely an illustration of the feasibility of growing tame small fruits around this district.

Judge Injured

By Angry Boar

J. Buckingham of Vermilion school of Agriculture was attacked by a boar Tuesday last and seriously injured while judging swine at Lloydminster Fair on Wednesday morning.

A gash of seven or eight inches long was made in the man's leg just above the knee, the wound being a very serious one. The injured man was taken to the hospital after having received first aid by a doctor.

Presentation

At LaPearl

The Y.P.S. of LaPearl Church met in a social capacity on Thursday evening. After an impromptu program of songs and recitations had been successfully carried out, Rev. Mitchelson gave an address in which he said in effect: We have met especially to do honor to two of our friends—Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dallyn nee Francis Morrison, who have just been united in the holy bond of wedlock. Marriage is not a failure, provided both parties have been guided and led by God—but is like the echo of a song ascending from the base of a great mountain. The echo's breaking through its turreted peaks blending into one hundred voices, making an exquisite and beautiful whole.

Therefore it affords us the Y.P.S. the greatest pleasure to express our good wishes for your future prosperity and happiness.

Miss Morrison in her own neat and kindly way presented them with a beautiful bible handsomely bound.

Mr. Dallyn replied briefly on behalf of himself and his wife, thanking the society for their kindness and good wishes.

A FARM ACCOUNTING SYSTEM THAT IS A GOOD THING FOR ANY FARMER

Duns and Bradstreets, the greatest mercantile agencies, both say that: "Carelessness is the greatest business criminal"—that 60 per cent of failures are due to this cause.

As a class, farmers are apt to be financially careless, very largely because there has hitherto been no complete method—so simple, the ordinary man could follow it—provided for keeping accurate account of their operations.

Scott's SIMPLIFIED Accounting System for Farmers meets this need. Kits forms providing for a monthly showing on every branch of farm work for Five Years—including a detailed inventory which will be accepted by any bank.

Following its simple principles, any farmer can keep accurate accounts—have a perfect check on every branch of farm work—it is a perfect book-keeping system—compiled by a banking expert especially for farmers.

The only system which is given a Systematized Pocket Note Book and simplifies your income tax return.

Ask to see the endorsement of the system by government officials and farmers' organizations officials, and leading financial men.

Copies can be obtained from the Chauvin Pharmacy.

Farm land values in Canada have increased 37 per cent. during the past five years.

Due chiefly to the drop in costs of materials and wages, farmers throughout the prairie provinces are erecting many buildings this year, says J. R. Davidson, editor and manager of the Prairie Lumberman, who was a visitor to Vancouver a few days ago. A campaign is under way among the retail lumbermen and farmers, urging the erection of 2000 silos this year, and this is meeting with success more plans and specifications having been prepared and more structures being under way probably that at any other time in the history of the west.

During the period January 1st to June 30th, this year, 2,183 homesteads and 714 soldier grant entries were recorded at Dominion Land offices in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, representing 2,897 settlers and about half a million acres of land, principally in territory served by lines of the Canadian National Railways. The chief recording offices are Winnipeg and Dauphin in Manitoba and Battleford, Swift Current, Moose Jaw, Prince Albert and Saskatoon, in Saskatchewan.

Life insurance in force in Canada today amounts to $2657,937,219, about $300 per head of the population. The greater part of this is carried by Canadian companies.

It should be borne in mind all the time that no class can legislate itself rich, and remain long in possession of those riches. The days for that sort of thing are now past history. The most that can be obtained from legislation is fair and equitable conditions of living—there the task of legislation ends, but not so the objects of organization for they are but just about to begin.

It is with the above thoughts in mind that the writer contends that no group should control parliament. He urges that parliament should not be the battlefield of conflicting economic interests, be they that of the moneyed class, or be they that of any other class.

He urges likewise that the economic question be faced squarely, and that more study be given to the selling end of the farmers business by the farmers themselves. With products sanely marketed there would be no room on God's earth for the fellows who play pitch and toss with the price of the farmers produce.

It is pleasing to note the development that has been made in the local rural telephone service. From this little town no less than eleven lines now radiate, but there is need of eleven more which doubtless will be erected at an early date.

The most urgent need at the present time is that the Saskatchewan government fulfil their pledge to erect a line from Artland to the Alberta boundary, and thus link up the very complete Manitou Lake Rural system.

Every Monday morning sees a large flock of commercial travellers, representing all lines of merchandise, flood into town. Throughout the week there is a steady coming and going of these 'knights of the grip.'

There are far too many of these gentlemen whose expenses must be added to the cost of the goods. Individual effort has been made to reduce their number, but it seems futile. The time is approaching closely, if not here already when retailers will have to organize to prevent the waste of money under the present system.

Capacity of Storage Bins

This is the season when many farmers do their building. Few farms have all the grain storage room they need and experience shows that it is not always wise to rush grain to the track as it is threshed. Sometimes there is congestion, car shortage or prices may be unsatisfactory. As a matter of fact, all will admit that a granary is a prime necessity. The following table should be of use to those who contemplate additions to their storage space this year.

Width in feet	Bin 6 ft long	Bin 7 ft long	Bin 8 ft long	Bin 9 ft long	Bin 10 ft long	Bin 11 ft long	Bin 12 ft long	Bin 13 ft long	Bin 14 ft long	Bin 15 ft long	Bin 16 ft long	Bin 20 ft long

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor,

Chauvin Chronicle

It has come to our ears that some good U.F.A. people have referred to that destined-to-be-famous Wainwright Convention report as just a bit of satire at the U.F.A. from beginning to end. Well, as our friend Mr. Priestly would say "That's just a matter of view point." The same good people who were so deeply grieved over our report of a U.F.A. Convention would chuckle with glee over a satirical report in the Grain Growers' Guide of 'doings at Ottawa or say 'a Liberal or Conservative Convention.' They read their Guide which fills them with all manner of uncharitable thoughts towards every class but their own, and no matter how much unnecessary vitrol Boss Chipman contrives to throw round they pronounce him 'a fine fellow' and allow themselves to be 'touched' for another three years' subscription, before their present one has expired! Of course that is their privilege, but why be so upset when their party once in a blue moon gets reported exactly as the reporter saw it? Besides the fact remains that the delegate who talked most of all was never mentioned ONCE in the 'Star' version. But that's another story what we wish to remark is that those good U.F.A. People who broke out in such a rash of resentment over a mild piece of work like that would be better to get the recipe for growing a hide like a hippopotamus, for they surely are going to need it.

They may or may not succeed in gagging the local press, but what are they going to do with the provincial press which will only be roused to unholy mirth by such palpable evidence of a lack of spirit of give and take amongst the U.F.A. members?

The U.F.A.'s have jibed and jeered at lawyer and doctor representatives, now it is up to them to be good sports and take a little wry medicine them selves.

But honestly friends, isn't it a bit thick for H. C. Wood, the farmers friend to be so keen on nominating a lawyer for Premier with a man from the farm like Herbert Greenfield to choose instead? But perhaps H. W. had the same trouble as the U.F.A. man we heard of, who during the election excitement told all his perplexed neighbors it was foolish to vote for the candidate who had had over a dozen years of farming experience and who had, though handicapped? with a good education managed to keep the wolf from the door very successfully—but advised strongly these same anxious enquirers to Not that we have much use for this to a knowledge of farming was a term in an agricultural college with the monotony of a brief essay at real farming relieved by staying in town with "Father!" But the cream of the joke was, that this particular party has in normal moments about as much use for an agricultural college "product" as he has for July frost. Both of them are blights to the country, in his estimation. Oh well, perhaps it was a form of election excitement, it couldn't possibly be mere jealousy of the other man, could it? Not that we have much use for this bona fide farmer stuff ourselves, when the post to be filled calls for administrative ability and experience more than a steady record as a farmer, but consistency is a jewel y' know, and a bona fide farmer is, or was the slogan of all true U.F.'s when looking for a candidate. Besides what can the average farmer, no matter how bona fide in his agricultural attainments know about the intricacies of pipeline bills and the way to encompass the immediate return of those natural resources, over which our good friends have split so much violent oratory these last weeks? Of course in the first fine glow of election ardour each U. F. Nominee was feeling like a superman and we understand one of them kindly assured the press the other day that "They would try awful hard not to run a Government like the last one." Attaboy, there's nothing like keeping up one's spirits. But what if it should develop into a worse one? But let us cheer up, Mr. Greenfield has been said to be nothing notable as a farmer but he's an Englishman of the level headed type and seems more free from having troublesome pet obsessions than some of his confreres, while he makes no profession of being a Superman. By the by we hate to think it but we have been told on excellent authority that if a large percentage of U.F. voters had known beforehand that no matter how many votes they bestowed on a U. F. nominee, the price of wheat, of eggs, of butter and farm stuff generally would keep on fluctuating with never a provincial government daring to stop it—they'd sure have voted for the MAN, and let the party go on the blink. Now the question is, was this unbelievable in ignorance the result of not realizing the powers vested in a provincial government, or did come one with more reason? Perhaps time will tell.

Yours truly

Honoring The Memory Of Canadian Heroes

The following extract from an English newspaper has been passed to us, with a request that we publish the same. We have much pleasure in complying with this request.—Editor

The High Commissioner for Canada was represented by Col. E. C. Compalin at a very interesting ceremony, which took place in the Bramshott churchyard on Sunday evening, when the Right Rev. Bishop Crossley dedicated the great War Cross that has been erected by the Imperial Graves Commission in a central position among the soldiers' graves. The occasion brought a large gathering of parishioners, who assembled in the field over looking the church yard, and opposite the monument itself a detachment of the 3rd Royal Fusiliers, under the command of Capt. C. L. Sutton, and Lieut. J. L. Lotinga, from Borden Camp, with arms reversed, was drawn up. There were also present on parade the Liphook company of Girl Guides, under Captain Miss Chichele Plowden, upon one side, and the Bramshott troop of the Boys' Scouts and Wolf Cubs, under Miss Tristam (scoutmaster and cubmaster) Assistant Scoutmaster Donoghue, Miss Bowles (assistant cubmaster), and Miss Roblett (cubs instructor), on the opposite side. The Scout's band, under Leslie Oliver, was present, as were also several members of the Bramshott and District Post of the Comrades of the Great War, including the Captain, Colonel G. C. R. Overton. Three trumpeters of the Royal Field Artillery attended with the military party, and stood facing them during the ceremony.

The dedication of the Great War Cross completes the work that was inaugurated six years ago, when the parishioners decided it was necessary to make a considerable extension to the churchyard in view of the establishment of Bramshott Camp, which was entirely situated within the parish boundary. An extension fund, amounting to £435, was raised almost entirely by local subscriptions, and a piece of ground was purchased, adjoining the churchyard and duly consecrated by the Bishop of Winchester. Some 334 soldiers lie buried in the churchyard. Nearly all of these are Canadians, and the perfect way in which the graves are kept is evidence that the parish is proudly conscious of the trust committed to its charge in caring for the graves of those who nobly came to aid of the mother country in its hour of need, and whose dear ones are many hundreds of miles away.

The Memorial Cross, which adds much to the beauty of the churchyard, is of Portland stone, set upon a massive base. Upon the eastern side of the shaft is a large Crusader's sword in bronze, and below, the inscription. "Their name liveth for evermore," is cut into the base. The monument was designed by Sir Reginald Bloomfield, R.A., and is exactly similar to those erected in the battlefield cemeteries. The execution of the work was entrusted to Messrs Harris and Sons, of Woking, and has been admirably carried out.

A row of maple trees borders the pathway through the churchyard, and behind are groups of prunus floribunda and other flowering shrubs, just now coming into bloom. Some of the parishioners had laid a bunch of spring flowers upon each of the soldiers' graves and a large wreath of laurel tied with red, white, and blue streamers, was placed at the base of the memorial inscribed. "In honored memory of those who gave their lives for their Mother Country from the workers at the Liphook Soldiers Room 1915-1918." Another wreath bore a card, "In grateful memory of many friends," and Mr. E. J. Chapman placed on the memorial a laurel wreath, which contained the inscription, "To the glorious memory of our Comrades of the Canadian Forces from the Captain and members of the Bramshot Post of the Comrades of the Great War."

The service at the memorial was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. E. H. Polehampton) assisted by the Rev.

H. A. Bowles, assistant priest at Bramshot, and the Bishop was attended by the two churchwardens (Mr. H. Inigo Triggs, and Mr. Hooker). The procession from the church to the memorial was led by Mr. Jasper Knight, and behind him were the choir and clergy. The opening hymn was, "Stand up, stand up, for Jesus." ad afterwards appropriate prayers were recited by the Rector. The 130th Psalm was said, the congregation taking the alternative verses, and th lesson, taken from the 3rd chapter of Wisdom "The souls of the righteous." was read by the Rev. H. A. Bowles.

The service of dedication was then proceeded with, and Bishop crossley, mounting the memorial, dedicated the Cross, using the following words: "In the faith of Jesus Christ we dedicate this Cross to the glory of God, and in memory of his servants, who lie in their last sleep round it, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

TWO WONDERFUL THINGS

Bishop Crossley addressing the congregation as "Fellow Soldiers, Boy Scouts, Girl Guides and friends assembled in reverent sympathy" said they stood in a churchyard which now possessed two churchyard crosses. As a rule there was only one, because the churchyard cross was so placed as to express the hope of eternal life, not only to the great and worthy, whose memorials might be read or erected, but to the humble lives who had no memorial and whose names were forgotten. The shadow of the churchyard cross fell alike upon them all, and one cross sufficed. But on that occasion they had two churchyard crosses, because twin nations lay there in their everlasting rest—twin nations separated by an ocean of vast extent, but joined in the fellowship of death in that old English churchyard. The great three hundred or more lay there from Canada. He had called them the great three hundred. They were many of them very young, most of nor entered a campaign. They were only in the camp of preparation, and there the swift and unexpected overtook them and rapidly they died, and now they rested and slept in that beautiful churchyard. He had called them the great three hundred. Why had he ventured thus to name them? Because they were truly great inasmuch as they represented two wonderful things—the cause that brought them and the sense of duty which enabled them to come. Those two things would never die. They lived with them with the immortal. The world might pass and wither, but the causes which united the Empire's sons would surely never die, while breathed the name of Britain or of Empire. At that point he would like to pause and say how deeply indebted all of them must feel to one who had with his skill, taken such pains and care to make that churchyard a worthy memorial, in every sense, to their cousins from overseas. Mr. Triggs had indeed spared no pains to make that beautiful churchyard worthy of the new inhabitants that claimed their last refuge there. But the world might say, as they looked at those sad graves, so beautifully decked today by the care of loving hands—he hoped someone would tell the Canadians that—"What loss, what miserable ruin"—but that cross would stand for many generations to answer loudly "No." It was not loss not ruin, because those lives, though great in their sense of duty and in the cause that brought them, were surely greater now with the expanding knowledge which was there, and with the fresh beauty of love shining upon them from the face of Jesus Christ.

It was not loss. He remembered that when he was in Canada there were two scenes which struck him very forcibly. One was at a place called Medicine Hat, and there, as they passed through on the great journey to the Pacific Coast, he found that the town was wonderfully lighted, and it was lighted by lights that never went out. There was a natural gas, which it was cheaper to burn always than to light periodically, and so they had the result of perpetual light. Then they went on to Vancouver, and there, in a lumber mill he saw something very much like perpetual motion, where the logs were hauled out passed through divers operations, and sawed into complete and finished articles for trade and commerce. But the curious thing was that the logs supplied the activity which consumed them; namely, the sawdust which was carried in a continual stream to feed the furnaces. He wanted to use those two pictures of perpetual light and perpetual motion as being the symbols of the greatness of Canada.

MESSAGE OF HOPE TO
MOURNING HEARTS

Canada was a very wonderful country, with great resources and possibilities. She was restless, as all true young life was restless, full of hope, and she had a vision which could and would be believed, accomplish greatness. She was full of light and full of motion. And she lay side by side with another great nation, the United States of America, and the most marvellous thing in frontier demarcation that the world had ever known lay between Canada and America, for that vast frontier, stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific, had no fortifications, no watchmen, and no guards. These two great nations lived side by side, unjealous and unguarded, and side by side they fought for the cause. When the United States recovered from its political dialectics, and when England stabilized itself into a sense of fellowship and responsibility, then and then only and Canada, with our own great selves throughout the Empire realize that it was from America that there came the highest piece of political idealism that the world had ever seen. He knew he spoke unpopularly, but he claimed that that great citizen of America with his 14 points, who secured the armistice which ended the great and terrible war would yet be honored wherever the name of humanity was loved. Meanwhile, the Cross united them, because it stood for sacrifice and service. Its vast arms encompassed everywhere service, and in that mighty unity of the Cross they believed they would live and win. Those young men, whose bodies lay alongside the Cross were loved by the Crucified. Tomorrow was St. Mark's Day and he liked to think that on the eve of St. Mark's day they dedicated the Cross to the memory of the young men whom Jesus loved. And to those mourning hearts in Canada, in their great cities, on the vast prairie, by the mighty lakes, by the long rivers, right to the cold grip of snow in the far north, they sent today a message from little Bramshott. They wanted to tell them that those graves would be in safe keeping that they would guard them with reverent care, and see to it that nought diminished what affection and love would remain were they at home. They told their mourning hearts that though they were separated by oceans they were united under the shadow of a cross which consecrated all service and immortalized every duty done, and that under its eternal promise He who lived through life and entered death to live again that all might live with told them from His lips of immortal love the text of the war that had made English religion a new thing. "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." "Eternal rest grant them, O Lord, and may light perpetual shine upon them.

The detachment of Royal Fusiliers were then brought to the "present arms" and the trumpeters of the Royal Artillery sounded the Last Post. The final hymn was "O what the joy and the glory will be," and after this had been slung a number of wreaths were placed upon the base of the monument.

A simple but impressive and memorable service thus came to a close, and afterwards the graves and the memorial were inspected with much interest by the large number of people present—Hants News, England.

Man Killed

By Lightning

A windstorm of considerable violence passed over this district last night. The centre of this storm was to the west of us.

Around Tofield this storm was accompanied by hail and severe lightning. One man was struck by lightning and instantly killed, within half a mile of Tofield town. All along the line eastward the storm was of great force, but unaccompanied by hail.
